As a lifelong resident of Geraldton, I have family ties to fishing and farming, and connections to the sporting, business, not-for-profit, and social service communities. I am a mum, a wife, and a professional, and like many of you, I understand the pressures of work, raising kids, volunteering and utilising local services and amenities in our region. I also understand the challenges and opportunities that Geraldton and the region share, and I want to enhance the liveability, affordability, planning, and economic sustainability of our City. I have a professional background in youth work, education, business, community development, healthcare, and mental health, in leadership, project, advocacy and research roles. As a City of Greater Geraldton Councillor, I will listen and advocate for the needs of our communities and influence ethical and transparent decision making that will shape the future direction of our region.
